

Bamberg students become Prime Ministers

6 students attended the prestigious German-American Youth Seminar at the Bavarian State Center for Political Education.

In a role play, the students were the heads of state of Italy, Spain and several more European countries.

Left to right:
Trenicia
Hawes, Jose
Urbacz,
Dionniah
Mathis,
Chris Gebel

“It was a great experience! We learned how the European Community works and how these countries interact.”
Chris Gebel (left),
(Chris Gebel)
Jonathan Castillo
and Christian Peel

“We were given this staged scenario that Algeria needed help from terrorist attacks and now we were discussing whether to send troops or not.”
Dionniah Mathis

Left to right: Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez, Dionniah Mathis

“It was a lot of fun and gave me different perspective on things.”
Jose Urbaez

Left to right: Christian Peel, Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez, Dionniah Mathis, Jonathan Castillo

“Usually, we just read that stuff, now it was different, we were the prime ministers. That makes you see how hard it is to make the right decision.” Trenicia Hawes

Left to right: Christian Peel, Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez, Dionniah Mathis, Chris Gebel, Jonathan Castillo

“Especially this role play has trained the students a lot for mature thinking.”
Spanish teacher
Remy Fountaine

Left to right: Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez,
Dionniah Mathis, Chris Gebel, Jonathan Castillo,
Christian Peel

During the four day program, the students met German students who also attended the Seminar.

Left to right: Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez, Dionniah Mathis, Chris Gebel, Jonathan Castillo, Christian Peel

“It was nice to get to know German students. I think we ‘ve all made friends.”
Trenicia Hawes

Left to right: Trenicia Hawes, Jose Urbaez, Dionniah Mathis, Chris Gebel